1 INTRODUCTORY NOTE

2       Defense counsel has made no attempt to comply with L.R. 37-2.2, for 3 Defendant to provide its portion of this Joint Stipulation as required. In accord 4 with L.R. 37-2.4, the attached Declaration of Aaron Stites, Plaintiff's counsel, 5 attests to this failure.

6       Plaintiff urges this Court to hear and decide this motion. Discovery is 7 soon to end by order of Judge Marshall, and Defendant is obstructing 8 discovery. The defense has refused all deposition dates, and has answered 9 almost nothing. Defendant has refused to identify witnesses (so they can be 10 subpoenaed), has refused to identify documents and will not state their 11 contentions; defense counsel only delays and serves evasive answers filled with 12 improper objections.

13       If Plaintiff cannot get these discovery motions heard and decided, the 14 defense will have been successful in stopping all discovery through the tactic of 15 delay and evasions.

16
 17       I. INTRODUCTORY STATEMENTS

18           A. Plaintiff's Introductory Statement

19       Plaintiff Norma Davis, an elderly lady, was denied a room at a hotel owned by 20 Los Angeles Travelodge West Partnership, L.P. ("Defendant") because she is a 21 disabled African-American. In this race/disability discrimination case it is essential 22 to learn what defenses are being asserted. Unfortunately, Defendant is playing hide 23 the ball. As a tactic, defense counsel has completely obstructed discovery to prevent 24 Plaintiff from obtaining evidence and discovering the claims made by Defendant.
 25 Defendant will only provide evasive and highly qualified responses to simple written 26 discovery. Defendant's main tactic is to obstruct written discovery with boilerplate 27 objections. Another tactic is to answer questions not asked. Worse still, Defendant 28

1 consistently refuses to state whether information is being withheld pursuant to 2 boilerplate objections.

3 This motion involves only four (4) simple, but important, interrogatories (Ex.
 4 "1" attached). They only ask for Defendant's contentions and the identification of 5 certain important witnesses and documents. Defendant refused to respond to several 6 questions, and when responses were given they were so qualified and narrowly 7 restricted by boilerplate objections as to be meaningless. This motion is brought 8 because Defendant refused to remove pages of boilerplate objections and answer 9 several important questions (Responses, Ex. "2," attached).

10 Plaintiff undertook a considerable effort to informally resolve these issues 11 without court intervention. Plaintiff's efforts were in vain. Plaintiff's letters went 12 unanswered, and after a long pre-filing telephonic conference defense counsel 13 refused to withdraw a single objection and only agreed to provide a supplemental 14 answer to one question (i.e., Interrogatory No. 6). Defense counsel further refused a 15 reasonable attempt to compromise, by declining to simply state in each interrogatory 16 response that no information was being withheld pursuant to boilerplate nuisance 17 objections and qualifications. Thereafter, Plaintiff's only choice was to abandon 18 discovery or file this motion.

19 At the status conference on June 1, 2009, Honorable Judge Marshall set the 20 trial in this case for October 3, 2009, and a discovery cut-off date just over one 21 month away. It is time for Defendant's evasive gamesmanship to end. As the 22 boilerplate preliminary statement, nuisance objections, and evasive responses 23 discussed herein show, the only way Defendant and its counsel will stop obstructing 24 discovery is if they are held accountable and sanctioned for their conduct.

25 B. Defendant's Introductory Statement

26 Nothing received from defense counsel.

28 ///

1      II. ISSUES IN DISPUTE

2      During the meet and confer telephonic conference, Defendant would not agree 3 on the issues in dispute. Hence, Defendant's version of disputed issues is listed 4 immediately after Plaintiff's issues.

5      A. Issues Plaintiff Contends are in Dispute

6      The following issues are in dispute: (1) whether Defendant must remove its 7 "Preliminary Statement" to Interrogatory responses; (2) whether Defendant must 8 remove its "General Objections and Qualifications"; (3) whether Defendant must 9 remove its specific objections to Interrogatories and provide non-evasive answers; 10 and, (4) whether an order recommending monetary sanctions should be given to the 11 district court judge for Defendant's evasive and incomplete discovery responses.

12     B. Issues Defendant Contends are in Dispute

13     Nothing received from defense counsel.

14

15     III. CONTENTIONS ON DEFENDANT'S "PRELIMINARY STATEMENT"
 16     TO INTERROGATORY RESPONSES

17     Defendant's boilerplate "Preliminary Statement" makes it impossible to know 18 if information is being withheld, and Defendant expressly states this "Preliminary 19 Statement" is to be "incorporated" into all interrogatory responses. Accordingly, 20 Plaintiff's contentions regarding this statement apply to all of Defendant's 21 interrogatory responses (i.e., including those not mentioned herein, which would be 22 acceptable if not for the obstructive preliminary statement and nuisance objections 23 Defendant refused to remove). The text of Defendant's "Preliminary Statement" is 24 given, verbatim, immediately below.

25     Defendant's Preliminary Statement: The following responses are based 26 upon the facts, documents and/or information presently known and available to the 27 Responding Party. The Responding Party has not completed its investigation of the 28 facts relating to this case, discovery, or preparation for trial. As such, without

1 obligating itself to do so, the Responding Party reserves the right to change and/or 2 supplement these responses as additional facts are discovered, revealed, recalled or 3 otherwise ascertained, and as further analysis and research disclose additional facts, 4 contentions or legal theories. The responses are given without prejudice to 5 Responding Party's right to produce evidence of any subsequently discovered facts
 6 and/or documents. The Responding Party will respond to each particular 7 Interrogatory in Plaintiffs First Set of Special Interrogatories as it understands and 8 interprets them. If the Propounding Party subsequently asserts an interpretation of an 9 interrogatory that differs from that of the Responding Party, the Responding Party 10 reserves the right to change and/or supplement its objections and/or responses. This 11 Preliminary Statement is incorporated by this reference into each and every response 12 below, as though set forth in full therein.

13       A. Plaintiff's Contentions on the "Preliminary Statement"

14       Defendant claims its "Preliminary Statement" is "incorporated . . . into each 15 and every response, as though set forth in full . . ." This is important because 16 Defendant is apparently using this "Preliminary Statement" as a reason for 17 withholding information and limiting the scope of interrogatory responses.

18       Defendant's "Preliminary Statement" contradicts the law on discovery, and 19 purports to give responding party far greater rights to limit answers than what is 20 permitted. The Preliminary Statement starts by limiting, "The following responses .
 21 . . [to] information presently known and available to the Responding Party." This is 22 an improper limitation of the obligation to answer interrogatories. It is evasive to 23 claim information is limited just to what "is presently known and available to 24 [Defendant]." Interrogatory answers must furnish "such information as is available 25 to the party." F.R.Civ.P. 33(a). Moreover, as a corporate party, Defendant must 26 provide information from sources under its control; including its employees, officers 27 and directors. Brunswick Corp. v. Suzuki Motor (ED WI 1983) 96 FRD 684, 686.

28

1       Defendant's attempt to limit "information . . . to the Responding Party" is 2 very significant here. Defendant is using this limitation to avoid giving information 3 from its hotel employees/mangers. This type of gamesmanship is a deliberate 4 attempt to ambush Plaintiff at trial. What Defendant wants is to spring new 5 information on Plaintiff at trial from some employee, who did not provide any 6 information in the answers to these interrogatories, because the "responses [were 7 only] based upon the facts, documents and/or information presently known and 8 available to the Responding Party." This should not be permitted.

9       Next, Defendant tries to limit the effect of its answers with the pre-packaged 10 excuse that, "Responding Party has not completed . . . discovery, or preparation for 11 trial. . . . [so] without obligating itself to do so, the Responding Party reserves the 12 right to change . . . these responses." Since discovery and trial preparation are 13 always ongoing during a case, until discovery is cut-off and trial begins, this is 14 clearly an abusive nuisance objection. Defendant wants to use this statement to 15 withhold information from interrogatory answers, based on the claim that it has not 16 "completed discovery or preparation for trial."

17       Furthermore, if Defendant can "reserve the right to change responses" when it 18 wishes, there is nothing to prevent Defendant from providing different responses at 19 the discovery cut-off date, or on the eve of trial. Providing late supplemental 20 responses would prevent Plaintiff from doing follow-up discovery and for all 21 practical purposes subject Plaintiff to "trial by ambush." See Royalty Petroleum Co.
 22 v. Arkla, Inc. (WD OK 1990) 129 FRD 674, 678.

23       It is also improper to claim "without obligating itself to do so, [Defendant] 24 reserves the right to change responses." Defendant is obligated to supplement or 25 correct earlier interrogatory answers upon learning they are "in some material 26 respect incomplete or incorrect." F.R.Civ.P. 26(e). Accordingly, this nuisance 27 limitation should be stricken. Defendant cannot evade discovery with this canned 28 excuse.

1       Next, Defendant claims, “The responses are given without prejudice to 2 Responding Party’s right to produce evidence of any subsequently discovered facts
 3 and/or documents.” With this erroneous statement of law Defendant basically 4 contends trial by ambush is acceptable. Defendant claims it can give limited 5 answers now, “without prejudice to [Defendant’s] right to produce evidence” at 6 some later date. This is of course nonsense. If the law permit Defendant to produce 7 evidence “without prejudice” at some later date, there would be no point in having 8 discovery cut-off dates.

9       If Defendant produces evidence of “subsequently discovered facts and/or 10 documents” that contradict “given” responses, Plaintiff can certainly use this 11 information to Defendant’s prejudice. “An answer to an interrogatory may be used 12 to the extent allowed by the Federal Rules of Evidence.” F.R.Civ.P. 33(c). Pursuant 13 to the Rules of Evidence discovery responses can be used at trial against the 14 answering party. F.R. Evid. 801(d)(2)(A),(C) & (E). If Defendant does not want to 15 be prejudiced by providing incomplete and evasive responses, it should answer 16 discovery properly in the first instance.

17       Finally, Defendant states that because it is responding “to each particular 18 Interrogatory . . . as it understands and interprets them. If [Plaintiff] subsequently 19 asserts an interpretation of an interrogatory that differs from that of [Defendant], 20 [Defendant] reserves the right to change and/or supplement its . . . responses.” Once 21 again, this statement/objection is nonsense. An interrogatory answer must be 22 complete in itself and not refer to extraneous evidence, like depositions or other 23 interrogatories. See Scaife v. Boenne (ND IN 2000) 191 FRD 590, 594. Defendant 24 cannot change responses just because “interpretations differ” on discovery Plaintiff 25 “subsequently” conducts on the responses (e.g., depositions). If Defendant is 26 permitted to change discovery responses based on questions Plaintiff asks at a 27 deposition, then testimony about the responses will become meaningless. Plaintiff 28 cannot question a witness at trial about deposition answers given to specific

1 discovery responses, if the underlying discovery responses have changed and no 2 longer exist (i.e., when a written discovery response changes, the basis for a 3 deponent's answer changes).

4 Defendant's "preliminary statement" is designed to permit evasive responses.
 5 The statement amounts to canned excuses Defendant wants to use to explain away 6 incomplete and evasive answers at some later date. The statement attempts to avoid 7 legal ramifications for not answering discovery in good faith. The party opposing a 8 motion to compel must support each ground on which it refused discovery. See 9 DIRECTV, Inc. v. Puccinelli (D KS 2004) 224 FRD 677. It is up to Defendant to 10 justify each ground of objection stated in its "Preliminary Statement." Since it is 11 legally impossible to do so, Defendant's improper boilerplate "Preliminary 12 Statement" should be ordered stricken.

13       i.     How Plaintiff Proposed to Resolve this Dispute

14       During the extensive meet and confer process, Plaintiff asked Defendant to 15 remove its "Preliminary Statement" because, amongst other things, Plaintiff had no 16 way of knowing whether information was being withheld pursuant to the objections 17 and qualifications. Defendant's counsel refused to remove the statement.
 18 Thereafter, in an effort to compromise, Plaintiff asked Defendant to state in each 19 response that no information was being withheld pursuant to the "Preliminary 20 Statement." Again, Defendant refused; stating the "Preliminary Statement" was 21 proper, that it would not be removed, and that Defendant was not required to state 22 whether information was being withheld pursuant to the statement.

23       B.     Defendant's Contentions on the "Preliminary Statement"

24       Nothing received from defense counsel.

25
 26       IV.    CONTENTIONS ON DEFENDANT'S "GENERAL OBJECTIONS"

27       The text of Defendant's general objections is given immediately below. Since 28 these boilerplate objections are expressly "incorporated" into each interrogatory

1 response, Plaintiff's contentions regarding these nuisance objections apply to all 2 interrogatory answers given by Defendant (i.e., including those not specifically 3 addressed herein, where the given responses would have been sufficient but for 4 improper nuisance objections).

5       Defendant's "General Objections and Qualifications:" The following 6 General Objections and Qualifications are in addition to, and are incorporated in, 7 each of the Responses to the Special Interrogatories set forth herein below. The 8 failure to mention any of the following objections, privileges, and/or qualifications 9 in the specific Responses to the Special Interrogatories set forth below shall not be 10 deemed a waiver of such objection, privilege, or qualification. The Responding Party 11 objects to all individual Interrogatories to the extent they call for information 12 protected by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine or any 13 other applicable privilege or protection. To the extent that the Interrogatories call for 14 information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product 15 doctrine or other applicable privilege or protection, the Responding Party hereby 16 claims such privilege and invokes such protection. The fact that the Responding 17 Party does not specifically object to an individual interrogatory on the ground that it 18 seeks such privileged or protected information shall not be deemed a waiver of the 19 protection afforded by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product 20 doctrine or other applicable privilege or protection. The Responding Party objects to 21 all of the individual Interrogatories to the extent that they seek the discovery of 22 sensitive and confidential business, financial and/or proprietary information of 23 Responding Party or any third party. The Responding Party objects to all of the 24 individual Interrogatories to the extent they purport to impose upon Responding 25 Party the burden of furnishing information that is not available to it or that is equally 26 or more readily available to Propounding Party. The Responding Party objects to the 27 Interrogatories as a whole, and in combination with the other written discovery 28 requests served simultaneously on Responding Party, to the extent that they are

1 repetitive, overbroad, unduly burdensome and oppressive, and are intended to harass 2 and annoy. The Responding Party objects to each and every Interrogatory that is 3 vague, ambiguous and/or overbroad. Further, the Responding Party objects to each 4 and every Interrogatory which is compound, requires the Responding Party to 5 speculate or presents to Responding Party an incomplete hypothetical.

6       A. Plaintiff's Contentions on the "General Objections"

7           As if the "Preliminary Statement" was not enough, the defense decided more 8 boilerplate "General Objections and Qualifications" were needed. These nuisance 9 objections confuse Defendant's responses further and make them even more evasive.
 10 Defendant's boilerplate "General Objections" effectively obfuscate its responses to 11 the point that nothing is really answered. Defense counsel's game is to make it 12 impossible to know if a question is being answered in full, or if information is being 13 withheld. The defense wants to provide answers so ambiguous they are useless.

14           Defendant begins by stating its, "General Objections and Qualifications are in 15 addition to, and are incorporated in, each of the Responses to the Special 16 Interrogatories . . . [and] The failure to mention any . . . objections, privileges, 17 and/or qualifications in the specific Responses . . . shall not be deemed a waiver . .
 18 .." The federal rules expressly assert, however, that "The grounds for objecting to 19 an interrogatory must be stated with specificity. Any ground not stated in a timely 20 objection is waived . . ." F.R.Civ.P. 33(b)(4). Since interrogatory objections need 21 to be "stated with specificity," or such "objection is waived," it is improper for 22 Defendant to claim its boilerplate "General Objections" apply to all responses, and 23 the failure to assert an objection "shall not be deemed a waiver." Since Defendant's 24 "General Objections and Qualifications" clearly violate the F.R.Civ.P., they are 25 improper and should be ordered stricken. False statements that contradict federal 26 law have no place in interrogatory answers.

27           Going even further, Defendant "objects to all individual Interrogatories to the 28 extent they call for information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the

1 attorney work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege,” and claims it 2 “shall not be deemed a waiver” if Defendant does not “specifically object to an 3 individual interrogatory. . . .” This objection constitutes improper gamesmanship.
 4 The law is well settled, boilerplate objections like this are insufficient to assert a 5 privilege. See Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Ry. Corp. v. United States Dist.
 6 Court for Dist. of Montana (9th Cir. 2005) 408 F.3d 1142, 1148. Moreover, when 7 information is withheld pursuant to a privilege (or work product protection), the 8 party must: (1) “expressly make the claim” of privilege in response to a specific 9 question; and, (2) “describe the nature of the . . . things not produced or disclosed 10 in a manner that . . . will enable other parties to assess the applicability of the 11 privilege or protection.” F.R.Civ.P. 26(b)(5)(A), emphasis added.

12 Next, Defendant generally “objects to all of the individual Interrogatories to 13 the extent that they seek the discovery of sensitive and confidential business, 14 financial and/or proprietary information of Responding Party or any third party.” It 15 is clearly abusive to assert boilerplate objections for unidentified persons or entities.
 16 How is Plaintiff to know who or what “any third party” is? If Defendant wants to 17 assert a privilege objection, based on allegedly confidential information, it must 18 make a specific objection to a particular question and provide a privilege log. This 19 boilerplate objection prevents Plaintiff from challenging improperly asserted 20 privileges, and knowing what privilege is even being claimed. Hence, this is clearly 21 an abuse of discovery.

22 Defendant’s improper boilerplate objections continue by asserting, “The 23 Responding Party objects to all of the individual Interrogatories to the extent they 24 purport to impose upon Responding Party the burden of furnishing information that 25 is not available to it or that is equally or more readily available to Propounding 26 Party.” A party cannot refuse to respond to discovery by claiming information is in 27 the possession of, or more readily available to, the requesting party. See Davidson v.
Goord (WD N.Y. 2003) 215 FRD 73, 77; See also DIRECTV, Inc. v. Puccinelli (D

1 KS 2004) 224 FRD 677, 689. Furthermore, if Defendant objects that “furnishing 2 information” is burdensome, then Defendant must “particularize” the basis for the 3 objection (i.e., what is burdensome). Nagele v. Electronic Data Systems Corp. (WD 4 NY 2000) 193 FRD 94, 109. Here, Defendant does not state which interrogatories 5 are burdensome, let alone particularize a basis for the objection.

6 Defendant then “objects to the Interrogatories as a whole, and in combination 7 with the other written discovery requests served simultaneously on Responding 8 Party, to the extent that they are repetitive, overbroad, unduly burdensome and 9 oppressive, and are intended to harass and annoy.” This boilerplate objection is 10 improper for several reasons. First, interrogatory objections must explain how a 11 question is overbroad, unduly burdensome, etc. See, *Mitchell v. National R.R.
 12 Passenger Corp.* (D. DC 2002) 208 FRD 455, 458, fn. 4; See also, St. Paul 13 Reinsurance Co., Ltd. v. Commercial Fin'l Corp., (N.D. IA 2001) 198 FRD 508, 14 512. Second, “The grounds for objecting to an interrogatory must be stated with 15 specificity.” F.R.Civ.P. 33(b)(4). Therefore, Defendant cannot “object to the 16 Interrogatories as a whole.” Finally, interrogatory responses should not refer to other 17 documents, discovery, etc.; a response should be complete in itself. See *Scaife v.
 18 Boenne, supra*, 191 FRD at 594. Hence, it is improper for Defendant to object “in 19 combination with the other written discovery requests.”

20 Defendant’s boilerplate nuisance objections conclude by stating, “Responding 21 Party objects to each and every Interrogatory that is vague, ambiguous and/or 22 overbroad. Further, the Responding Party objects to each and every Interrogatory 23 which is compound, requires the Responding Party to speculate or presents to 24 Responding Party an incomplete hypothetical.” This string of nuisance objections is 25 improper. Again, Defendant is required to make specific objections (F.R.Civ.P.
 26 33(b)(4)) and the Mitchell and St. Paul Reinsurance Co. cases, supra, make it clear 27 Defendant must explain what is “vague, ambiguous and/or overbroad.” Moreover, 28 Defendant is required to use reason and common sense before claiming an

1 interrogatory is ambiguous, and if needed Defendant can include a reasonable 2 definition of supposedly vague terms or phrases to clarify its answers. Pulsecard, 3 Inc. v. Discover Card Services, Inc. (D. KS 1996) 168 FRD 295, 310.

4 Asserting every objection imaginable, and claiming the boilerplate objections 5 apply to all questions, is an abuse of discovery. All of this was carefully planned.
 6 Defendant's boilerplate objections are designed to evade discovery, by withholding 7 information. Proof of this is shown by the fact that Defendant refused to include a 8 sentence in each response stating nothing was withheld pursuant to the objections.
 9 Defendant's gamesmanship is inexcusable.

10       i. How Plaintiff Proposed to Resolve the Dispute

11       During the meet and confer process Plaintiff tried to get defense counsel to 12 withdraw its general objections and qualifications. Defendant refused. Plaintiff then 13 tried to get defense counsel to withdraw the most outrageous general objections.
 14 Again, defense counsel completely refused. Finally, in an effort to compromise, 15 Plaintiff requested that Defendant simply confirm in each response that it was not 16 withholding information pursuant to the boilerplate objections. Defense counsel 17 even refused this very reasonable request; stating the objections were proper and if 18 Plaintiff's counsel wanted them removed he would have to compel the removal.
 19 Accordingly, Plaintiff respectfully requests that Defendant be ordered to remove its 20 "General Objections and Qualifications."

21       B. Defendant's Contentions on the "General Objections"

22       Nothing received from defense counsel.

23

24       V. CONTENTIONS ON DEFENDANT'S SPECIFIC INTERROGATORY
 25       RESPONSES AND OBJECTIONS

26       As explained above, since Defendant's boilerplate preliminary statement and 27 general objections are expressly "incorporated" into each interrogatory response, and 28 the statement/objections make it impossible to know whether information is being

1 withheld, Defendant should be ordered to provided supplemental responses to all 2 interrogatories devoid of the abusive statement/objections (i.e., including those not 3 discussed immediately below, which would be acceptable if not for the objections).
 4 Listed below are the specific interrogatory responses Plaintiff takes issue with. Each 5 interrogatory is followed, verbatim, by Defendant's specific objections and response 6 (if any), then Plaintiff's and Defendant's contentions.

7           A. INTERROGATORY NO. 2

8           IDENTIFY the women who worked at the front desk of YOUR Travelodge 9 motel on August 16, 2008 between the hours of 5:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m.

10           Defendant's Specific Objections and Response: Responding Party objects 11 to the extent that this Interrogatory seeks information which is confidential and/or 12 proprietary in nature. Responding Party objects to the extent that the request seeks 13 private information protected from disclosure. Responding Party objects to this 14 interrogatory to the extent that it seeks proprietary or other confidential information 15 and private information that is protected from disclosure by the privacy rights 16 afforded to Responding Party and third party. Without waiving the foregoing 17 objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Raquel Dela Rosa. Ms. Dela 18 Rosa can be contacted through counsel of record for Responding Party.

19           i. Plaintiff's Contentions on Interrogatory No. 2

20           Plaintiff takes issue with Interrogatory No. 2 because Defendant is 21 withholding witness contact information, and Plaintiff is not required to accept 22 defense counsel's claim the witness can be contacted through their office.
 23 Interrogatory No. 2 simply asked for the contact information of the hotel employee 24 who refused Plaintiff a room. This information is unquestionably relevant and 25 crucially important; indeed virtually nothing is more important in discovery than 26 identifying witnesses and obtaining their contact information. Further, simply 27 stating a witness can be "contacted" through defense counsel does not mean the 28

1 witness authorized Defendant or its counsel to accept service on the witness's 2 behalf. Contact information is, therefore, essential.

3 Plaintiff's interrogatory definitions specifically state, ““IDENTIFY” a person, 4 means to state the name, residence address, business address, phone numbers, [and] 5 employer along with the employer's address.” It is clearly a nuisance objection to 6 claim this interrogatory seeks “private information” that is “confidential and/or 7 proprietary in nature.” This interrogatory does not ask about any “privacy” issues 8 recognized under federal law. Plaintiff is not asking about trade secrets, sensitive 9 documents, or anything else “proprietary in nature.” Nor is Plaintiff asking for 10 confidential financial information, or about the witness's medical condition, sexual 11 orientation, etc. This question only seeks a crucial witness's contact information.

12 Defendant's idea that the witness may be “contacted through counsel” is 13 evasive and insufficient. “Contact” through defense counsel does not provide a way 14 of serving process. Defense counsel does not have authorization to accept service of 15 process (i.e. a trial subpoena or a summons) and, even if this was done, there is 16 nothing to stop the witness from revoking such authority. Plaintiff has a right to be 17 able to subpoena a witness. Moreover, since “Ms. Dela Rosa” is not a party in this 18 case, this Court does not have jurisdiction over her. Therefore, it is crucial to have 19 contact information so Plaintiff can assure the Court obtains jurisdiction over the 20 witness (via a subpoena) should it be necessary. Defense counsel is improperly 21 trying to hamper this ability, which is unacceptable.

22 The federal rules are clear. The party answering interrogatories must furnish 23 “such information as is available to the party.” F.R.Civ.P. 33(a). Defendant 24 undoubtedly has contact information for this important witness. Defendant's 25 response is therefore evasive because it does not provide any contact information.
 26 According to F.R.Civ.P. 37(a)(4), “an evasive . . . response must be treated as a 27 failure to . . . respond.” Defendant's failure to provide contact information is the 28 same as a failure to respond.

1           a. How Plaintiff Proposed to Resolve the Dispute

2           Plaintiff requested that Defendant remove its improper objections and provide 3 the witness's contact information. Defendant refused, claiming its objections were 4 appropriate and the response was sufficient because "Ms. Dela Rosa can be 5 contacted through counsel for Responding Party." In an attempt to compromise, 6 Plaintiff asked Defendant to simply state in the response that Ms. Dela Rosa 7 authorized Defendant and its counsel to accept service of process for her. Again, 8 defense counsel refused, leaving Plaintiff no choice but to move to compel contact 9 information.

10          ii. Defendant's Contentions on Interrogatory No. 2

11          Nothing received from defense counsel.

12          B. INTERROGATORY NO. 8

13          In this litigation, are YOU making any contention that Norma Davis has acted 14 improperly in any matter?

15          Defendant's Specific Objections and Response: Responding Party objects
 16 on the grounds that the interrogatory seeks information protected by the attorney-
 17 client privilege or attorney work product doctrine. Responding Party objects to this 18 interrogatory on the ground that it is propounded for the purpose of harassing
 19 Responding Party. Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party 20 responds as follows: Unknown at this time. Discovery has just commenced, and 21 Responding Party reserves its right to supplement this response.

22          i. Plaintiff's Contentions on Interrogatory No. 8

23          This is an excellent example of Defendant's obstructive tactics in discovery.
 24 There is no justification for refusing to respond to this interrogatory, which simply 25 requires Defendant to answer "yes" or "no" it contends Plaintiff acted improperly.
 26 The defense certainly has sufficient information to know whether it is making such a 27 contention. The response to this interrogatory shows Defendant is withholding 28 information pursuant to boilerplate objections.

1       Defendant has objected to revealing its contentions based on boilerplate work
2 product and attorney client privilege objections. Asserting attorney client privilege 3 is nonsense. This interrogatory simply asked Defendant to state, yes or no, if it 4 contends Plaintiff acted improperly. The interrogatory does not ask for 5 communications between Defendant and its attorneys.

6       Defendant cannot conceal its contentions in discovery by simply giving 7 information to its attorneys. Brunswick Corp. v. Suzuki Motor (ED WI 1983) 96
8 FRD 684, 686. If Defendant's attorney-client privilege objection was valid there 9 would be no point in conducting discovery; all a party would have to do is tell its 10 attorney all the facts in a case then refuse to answer discovery based on privilege 11 objections. Fortunately, this is not how discovery works. The attorney-client 12 privilege has a "limited purpose of encouraging full and frank disclosure by the 13 client to his or her attorney." Clarke v. American Commerce Nat'l. Bank (9th Cir.
14 1992) 974 F.2d 127, 129. It is abusive to refuse to state simple contentions based on 15 the attorney-client privilege.

16       Work product privilege is also not a valid objection to an interrogatory that 17 merely seeks to determine whether a contention is being made. If information is 18 known to persons over whom Defendant has control (i.e., employees like "Ms. Dela 19 Rosa"), Defendant has a duty to obtain such information and provide it. Continental 20 Bank v. Caton (1991) 136 FRD 682, 686. Further, information known by employees 21 is subject to discovery and not protected as work product. *General Dynamics Corp.
22 v. Seib Mfg. Co.* (8th Cir. 1973) 481 F.2d 1204, 1210. Defendant has certainly 23 obtained sufficient information from its hotel front desk managers/employees to 24 enable it to provide an answer to this question, but rather than provide a response, 25 defense counsel asserts pages of boilerplate objections and absolutely refuses to 26 answer anything under phony claims of privilege. Defendant's objections to this 27 interrogatory are pure evasive gamesmanship.

28

1       The claim that this interrogatory was “propounded for the purpose of 2 harassing” Defendant is ridiculous. Attempting to discover whether a party is 3 making certain contentions is clearly not harassing. This interrogatory is a simple 4 question. If the defense is not contending Plaintiff acted improperly, it should 5 provide an answer and state such. Defendant, however, claims it is unable to 6 respond because, “Discovery has just commenced.” This response is evasive and 7 blatantly false. This case has been pending for six months, more than sufficient time 8 for Defendant to answer such a simple question.

9       It is clear the defense is trying to withhold information, and refuse to state its 10 contentions, so that it can spring information on Plaintiff at trial. Plaintiff needs 11 assistance from the court to prevent a trial by ambush. Defendant should be ordered 12 to give a full and complete answer, and sanctions should be recommended to 13 discourage Defendant and its counsel’s continued discovery abuses.

14       a.     How Plaintiff Proposed to Resolve the Dispute

15       During the Meet & Confer process Plaintiff went through the boilerplate 16 objections, discussed immediately above, by explaining why they were improper 17 and needed to be removed. For example, Plaintiff asked Defendant to either remove 18 its privilege/work product objections, or provide a privilege log (i.e., give a basic 19 description of supposedly protected documents/conversations, who conversations 20 were with or where the documents were from, etc.) so that Plaintiff could challenge 21 improperly asserted privilege objections. It did no good. Defense counsel insisted 22 all the objections were proper and refused to provide a simple yes or no response.

23       Plaintiff then attempted to resolve this dispute by proposing Defendant simply 24 state in the response that no information was being withheld pursuant to objections, 25 and that it had spoken with its employees/managers about whether Plaintiff acted 26 improperly at the hotel, but was unable to answer the question. This reasonable 27 proposal was also refused. Defense counsel stated no objections would be removed, 28 no privilege log would be provided, and no supplemental response would be given.

1 Since Defendant failed “to provide information” regarding whether its contention 2 was that Plaintiff acted improperly, Defendant should no longer be “allowed to use 3 that information . . . at a trial.” F.R.Civ.P, 37(c)(1).

4           ii. Defendant’s Contentions on Interrogatory No. 8

5           Nothing received from defense counsel.

6           C. INTERROGATORY NO. 9

7           If so, state the facts upon which YOU base such a contention, including 8 setting forth YOUR evidence in support.

9           Defendant’s Specific Objections and Response: Responding Party objects
 10 on the grounds that the interrogatory seeks information protected by the attorney-11 client privilege or attorney work product doctrine. Responding Party objects to this 12 interrogatory on the ground that it is propounded for the purpose of harassing
 13 Responding Party. Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party
 14 responds as follows: Unknown at this time. Discovery has just commenced, and 15 Responding Party reserves its right to supplement this response.

16           A. Plaintiff’s Contentions on Interrogatory No. 9

17           This interrogatory is merely a follow up to No. 8, above. It simply asks what 18 facts Defendant might have to support the contention that Plaintiff acted improperly.
 19 Defendant’s response to this simple interrogatory is just a cut and paste job; word for 20 word the objections and response is identical to No. 8. Accordingly, the same 21 analysis applied to Interrogatory No. 8, applies equally here.

22           It should be noted that abusive tactics like the ones Defendant is employing, 23 are a terrible waste of judicial resources and make simple discovery arduous and 24 expensive. Defendant’s repeated efforts to obstruct discovery is driving up the costs 25 and fees in this case dramatically.

26           a. How Plaintiff Proposed to Resolve the Dispute

27           Plaintiff attempted to resolve this dispute in the same fashion as Interrogatory 28 No. 8, above. Defense counsel refused to confer in good faith; stating that all of the 1 objections were valid, none would be withdrawn and that asking for contentions was 2 equivalent to demanding work product that would never be given. It was impossible 3 to work out even the slightest agreement.

4       ii. Defendant's Contentions on Interrogatory No. 9

5 Nothing received from defense counsel.

6       D. INTERROGATORY NO. 10

7       If YOU contend that Norma Davis has committed fraud with regard to any 8 matter, fully state the evidence supporting this contention.

9       Defendant's Specific Objections and Response: Responding Party objects
 10 on the grounds that the interrogatory seeks information protected by the attorney-11 client privilege or attorney work product doctrine. Responding Party objects to this 12 interrogatory on the ground that it is propounded for the purpose of harassing
 13 Responding Party. Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party
 14 responds as follows: Unknown at this time. Discovery has just commenced, and 15 Responding Party reserves its right to supplement this response.

16       i. Plaintiff's Contentions on Interrogatory No. 10

17       This interrogatory is similar to No. 8, above, but it differs in that it asked 18 whether Defendant contends Plaintiff committed any type of fraud in this case. At 19 the inception of this case defense counsel sent an e-mail demanding Plaintiff dismiss 20 her case, or Defendant would bankrupt Plaintiff and her counsel with the costs and 21 fees incurred in defending this case. Defense counsel attached several internet 22 articles to this e-mail, wherein the defense claimed to have prevailed in some trivial 23 cases by accusing the plaintiffs in those unrelated cases of being frauds. The intent 24 of Interrogatory No. 10 is to flush out whether the defense plans on making a 25 meritless fraud contention in this case.

26       It should be noted that although this is a different question, which relates 27 specifically to fraud, Defendant's response and objections to this question are once 28 again word for word identical to the responses to Interrogatories Nos. 8 and 9 above.

1 These repetitive boilerplate objections and responses are a clear example of abusive 2 discovery tactics, precisely what is condemned by the Federal Rules of Civil 3 Procedure and Federal Rules Decisions.

4 According to F.R.Civ.P, 37(c)(1), “If a party fails to provide information . . .
 5 the party is not allowed to use that information . . . at a trial, unless the failure was 6 substantially justified or is harmless.” Here, there can be little doubt Defendant’s 7 refusal to state its own contentions were not substantially justified (i.e., the defense 8 does not need information from plaintiff to state its own contentions). Further, 9 Defendant’s failure to provide information and state its contentions is not harmless; 10 it has caused Plaintiff serious harm.

11 Plaintiff propounded this written discovery over two months ago, if Defendant 12 had simply answered these questions Plaintiff would have been able to conduct 13 further discovery on Defendant’s contentions. The discovery cut-off date in this 14 case is just over one month away. Plaintiff does not have time to do follow up 15 written discovery on Defendant’s contentions. Since Defendant absolutely refused to 16 provide information about whether it was contending Plaintiff acted fraudulently, 17 Defendant should not now be permitted to use any such information or assert fraud 18 at trial. This is only fair.

19       a.     How Plaintiff Proposed to Resolve the Dispute

20 Once again Plaintiff tried to resolve this dispute in the same fashion as the 21 disputes discussed above. Plaintiff explained how every objection was improper, 22 and why it was important to know if the defense was contending Plaintiff acted 23 fraudulently. Defense counsel stated all objections were proper, none would be 24 withdrawn, and whether the defense was claiming fraud required the disclosure of 25 work product and attorney-client privileged communications.

26       ii.     Defendant’s Contentions on Interrogatory No. 10

27 Nothing received from defense counsel.

1     VI. CONTENTIONS ON A RECOMMENDATION OF SANCTIONS

2       A. Plaintiff's Contentions on a Recommendation of Sanctions

3           According to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b), “a judge may designate a magistrate judge 4 to hear and determine any pretrial matter pending before the court . . . A judge of the 5 court may [then] accept, reject, or modify, in whole or in part, the findings or 6 recommendations made by the magistrate judge.” In this case, the judge designated a 7 magistrate judge “to hear and determine” discovery disputes pending before the 8 court. Plaintiff therefore respectfully requests an order giving monetary sanction 9 recommendations for Defendant’s evasive responses to interrogatories.

10          F.R.Civ.P. 37(a)(4) states, “For purposes of this subdivision (a), an evasive or 11 incomplete disclosure, answer, or response must be treated as a failure to disclose, 12 answer, or respond.” Here, the boilerplate objections and interrogatory responses 13 are designed to be both evasive and incomplete. For example, it was clearly evasive 14 for Defendant to refuse to provide a “yes” or “no” answer to Interrogatory No.7 (i.e., 15 if Defendant was “making any contention” Plaintiff acted improperly), and 16 Defendant intentionally gave an incomplete answer by refusing to provide contact 17 information for “Ms. Dela Rosa,” in response to Interrogatory No. 2. As such, 18 Defendant’s evasive and incomplete interrogatory answers must be treated as a 19 failure to answer.

20          “A party seeking discovery may move for an order compelling an answer . . .
 21 This motion may be made if: a party fails to answer an interrogatory . . .” F.R.Civ.P.
 22 37(a)(3)(B)(iii). According to F.R.Civ.P. 37(a)(5), “If the motion is granted . . . the 23 court must . . . require the party . . . whose conduct necessitated the motion . . . or 24 attorney advising that conduct, or both to pay the movant’s reasonable . . . attorney’s 25 fees. [Unless] (i) the movant filed the motion before attempting in good faith to 26 obtain . . . discovery without court action; (ii) the opposing party’s . . . response, or 27 objection was substantially justified; or (iii) other circumstances make an award of 28 expenses unjust.” Here, Plaintiff repeatedly tried in good faith to convince

1 Defendant that it's interrogatory answers were evasive and incomplete, first by 2 sending a letter and then by conducting a telephonic conference. When Defendant 3 refused to confer in good faith, Plaintiff even tried to compromise by asking 4 Defendant to simply state that no information was being withheld pursuant to its 5 improper boilerplate objections. Plaintiff clearly attempted to obtain interrogatory 6 answers "without court action," and there can be no doubt Defendant's evasive and 7 incomplete boilerplate answers are not "substantially justified."

8 Since defense counsel's refusal to remove improper objections and provide 9 non-evasive/complete interrogatory answers is completely unjustified, sanctions 10 should be recommended. As the attached Declaration of Plaintiff's counsel attests, 11 over fifteen (15) hours has been spent attempting to resolve this dispute, and drafting 12 this motion to compel. An additional five (5) or more hours will also be spent 13 preparing a reply and attending the hearing of this matter. In order to be 14 "reasonable" pursuant to the Federal Rules, Plaintiff is only requesting a 15 recommendation of attorney's fees for 10 hours of his time. Since Plaintiff's counsel 16 bills at a rate of $295/hr., it is therefore respectfully requested that an order be 17 provided to the judge recommending Defendant and its counsel pay fees and 18 expenses of $2,950.00 for cost and fees incurred in this motion.

19       i. How Plaintiff Proposed to Resolve the Dispute

20 Plaintiff told Defendant that if all the boilerplate objections were removed and 21 complete/non-evasive answers were provided, a motion to compel responses and 22 attorney's fees would not be necessary. Defense counsel was also informed that if a 23 motion to compel was required, reasonable attorney fees would be sought. It did no 24 good, defense counsel refused to compromise.

1     V.     CONCLUSIONS

2         A.     Plaintiff's Conclusion

3             To date, Plaintiff has been unable to get Defendant to cooperate with any form 4             of discovery. Defendant has taken the position Plaintiff can do nothing. It is 5             regretful that assistance from this court is necessary to obtain simple discovery, but 6             Defendant and its counsel have consistently shown without court interventions 7             nothing will be provided to Plaintiff.

DECLARATION OF AARON STITES

I, Aaron Stites, declare as follows:

1. I am an attorney at law duly licensed to practice before this Court and 2 all courts of the State of California, and am the attorney of record herein for Plaintiff
3 Norma Davis. The facts set forth herein are true of my own personal knowledge, 4 and if called as a witness I could and would competently testify to what is stated.

2. During the meet and confer process I attempted to resolve this dispute 3 via a letter and long personal telephone conferences. The pre-filing conferences 4 were done by telephone because the attorney's offices are in different counties
5 (about 100 miles apart). Lengthy pre-filing conferences on this motion to compel 6 answers to interrogatories were conducted on May 6, 2009 with opposing attorney 7 Scott Ferrell and on May 22, 2009 with opposing attorney Mr. Renfro. The pre-8 filing conference with Mr. Ferrell on May 22nd took well over one hour, and during 9 this pre-filing conference I explained in detail why Defendant's boilerplate 10 objections and limitations violated the Rule of Civil Procedure. I asked defense 11 counsel to remove, some but not all of the improper boilerplate 12 objections/preliminary statement and provide non-evasive interrogatory answers 13 pursuant to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Defense counsel listened but 14 refused all agreements. Not one single objections would be removed, and nothing 15 would be removed in the long boilerplate preliminary objections and limitations.
16 Defense counsel cut off all discussion about the merits of Plaintiff's contention by 17 refusing to explain why all of the boilerplate objections were appropriate or 18 defensible. Defense counsel only made one trivial agreement, to provide one 19 supplemental response (i.e., to Interrogatory No. 6). When Defendant refused to 20 compromise I tried to avoid this motion by asking defense counsel to simply state in 21 each response that no information was being withheld and answer the simple 22 contention interrogatories that were propounded. After defense counsel refused this 23 very reasonable offer I was left with no choice but to seek assistance from the court.

1       3. It appears the only way to get any answers to discovery is by this 2 motion and by sanctions to be imposed. I therefore respectfully request an order 3 recommending monetary sanctions. I have spent over fifteen (15) hours trying to 4 resolve this dispute, and then preparing this joint stipulation (e.g., conducting legal 5 research, conferring with my client, law clerk and co-counsel, etc.). I will probably 6 spend more than five (5) hours studying Defendant's papers, preparing a response 7 brief and for oral argument, and traveling to court on this dispute. If Defendant and 8 its counsel were ordered to pay for all of my time, well in excess of twenty (20) 9 hours, they might finally get the message that discovery is not a game and evasive 10 tactics are not acceptable. However, to be reasonable in accordance with the federal 11 rules, I am only requesting sanctions for ten (10) hours of my time. My normal 12 billing rate is $295.00 in this case. I therefore respectfully request an order 13 recommending Defendant and its counsel pay $2,950.00 in attorney's fees for 14 forcing this motion to compel Defendant to remove evasive boilerplate objections, 15 and provide complete non-evasive responses to simply interrogatories.

16      4. In supplement to this motion and in accord with the requirements of 17 L.R. 37-2.4 to state Defendant's failure to provide opposing party's portion of the 18 joint stipulation, Plaintiff states the following occurred. Following L.R. 37-2.2, 19 Plaintiff's counsel served electronically this Separate Statement on defense counsel 20 on June 2, 2009. According to L.R. 37-2.2, defense counsel had five (5) court days 21 (until June 9, 2009) to personally deliver, e-mail or fax to Plaintiff's counsel 22 Defendant's portion of the stipulation. To the present time (noon of June 10th), 23 when this declaration is prepared, there has been nothing from defense counsel on 24 this joint stipulation or the dispute on these interrogatories.

25      5. Plaintiff's counsel would like to emphasize that there has been a nearly 26 complete failure of Defendant to answer discovery. They have cancelled all 27 depositions notices Plaintiff sent, and refused to agree to any new dates, they have 28

1 answered all written discovery with long boilerplate motions and a few evasive 2 incomplete responses that say almost nothing.

3       6. The efforts to meet and confer have been absolutely worthless. The 4 only thing defense counsel will do is refuse to remove improper objections and 5 answer discovery, since they expect that any discovery motion will be rejected.

6       7. Plaintiff respectfully urges this motion to be heard. If this motion is 7 again rejected, the reward will go to Defendant's tactic of refusing to answer 8 discovery. That should not happen.

9       8. Attached hereto as Exhibit "1" is a true and correct copy of Plaintiff's 10 First Set of Special Interrogatories to Defendant Los Angeles Travelodge West 11 Partnership, L.P.

12       9. Attached hereto as Exhibit “2” is a true and correct copy of Defendant 13 Los Angeles Travelodge West Partnership, L.P.’s Responses to Plaintiff’s First Set 14 of Special Interrogatories.

16 I declare under penalty of perjury, under the laws of the United States, that 17 the foregoing is true and correct.

Case No. CV08-8279 CBM (CTx)

DEFENDANT LOS ANGELES WEST TRAVELODGE'S RESPONSES AND OBJECTIONS TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSIONS, SET ONE

18 Complaint Filed: December 18, 2008
19 Trial Date: None Set

21 PROPOUNDING PARTY: Plaintiff JANE DOE

22 RESPONDING PARTY: Defendant LOS ANGELES WEST TRAVELODGE

23 SET NO.: One

25 Defendant Los Angeles West Travelodge (“Responding Party” or “Defendant”)
26 hereby responds to Plaintiff Jane Doe’s (“Propounding Party” or “Plaintiff”) Request 27 for Admissions, Set One as follows:
28

1     1. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT.

2         Responding Party has not completed its discovery in this matter and has not 3 completed preparation for trial. The following responses are based on Responding 4 Party's knowledge as of the date of these responses and are limited to information 5 currently available to Responding Party after reasonable and diligent investigation. The 6 responses are given without prejudice to Responding Party's right to produce evidence 7 of any subsequently discovered facts and/or documents.

8         Responding Party will respond to each Request as it understands and interprets 9 the Request. If Propounding Party asserts an interpretation of a specific Request that 10 differs from that of Responding Party, Responding Party reserves its rights to 11 supplement its objections and/or responses.

12         This Preliminary Statement/Objection is incorporated by this reference into each 13 and every response below as though set forth in full therein.

14

15     2. GENERAL OBJECTIONS AND QUALIFICATIONS.

16         The following General Objections are in addition to and are incorporated in each 17 of the Specific Responses set forth in Part 3 below:

18

19         A.         Responding Party objects to all of the individual Requests to the extent 20 they call for information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work 21 product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or protection. To the extent that the 22 Requests call for information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney 23 work product doctrine or other applicable privilege or protection, Responding Party 24 hereby claims such privilege and invokes such protection. The fact that Responding 25 Party does not specifically object to an individual Request on the ground that it seeks 26 such privileged or protected information shall not be deemed a waiver of the protection 27 afforded by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine or other 28 applicable privilege or protection.

1       B. Responding Party objects to all of the individual Requests to the extent 2 they purport to impose upon Responding Party the burden of furnishing information
3 that is not available to it or that is equally or more readily available to Propounding 4 Party.

5
6       C. Responding Party objects to all of the Requests containing the word "you" 7 or "you or anyone acting on your behalf" as being vague, ambiguous and overbroad in 8 light of the definitions provided for such terms. To the extent that any response has 9 been provided to any such interrogatories, Responding Party has assumed the term 10 "you" to mean Responding Party only.

11
12      D. The foregoing objections and qualifications apply to the responses 13 contained herein and are incorporated by reference to the extent applicable to the 14 specific responses set forth below as though fully set forth therein. The failure to 15 mention any of the foregoing objections and qualifications in the specific responses set 16 forth below shall not be deemed a waiver of such objection or qualification.

17 18      3. SPECIFIC RESPONSES.

19      Subject to and without waiving the foregoing General Objections and 20 Qualifications, Responding Party answers as follows:

21
22      REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 1:

23      An elderly lady of African-American descent, with a dog, was in the lobby of 24 your Los Angeles Travelodge West motel at approximately 6:00 p.m. on August 16, 25 2008.

26      RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 1:

27      Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun.
28 Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess

1 sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore 2 reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered
 3 during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's 4 analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research
 5 into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates 6 that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions, 7 and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further objects to 8 the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing 9 objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as 10 follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently
 11 unable to admit or deny the Request. Discovery is continuing, and Responding Party 12 reserves its right to supplement this Request.

13

14 REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 2:

15 A woman employee of the Los Angeles Travelodge West motel was working at 16 the front desk at approximately 6:00 p.m. on August 16, 2008.

17 RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 2:

18 Responding Party objects to the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous.
 19 Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as follows:
 20 Admit.

21

22 REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 3:

23 Plaintiff, whose name is Norma Davis, was denied room accommodations at the 24 Los Angeles Travelodge West on August 16, 2008.

25 RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 3:

26 Responding Party objects to the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous.
 27 Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as follows:
 28 Deny.

1

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 4:

2

3 On August 16, 2008 Plaintiff was denied room accommodations at the Los 4 Angeles Travelodge West because she is African-American.

5 RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 4:

6 Responding Party objects to the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous.
7 Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as follows:
8 Deny.

9

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 5:

10

11 On August 16, 2008 Plaintiff told the woman working at the front desk of the Los 12 Angeles Travelodge West that Plaintiff's dog is a service dog.

13 RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 5:

14 Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun.
15 Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess
16 sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore 17 reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered
18 during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's 19 analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research
20 into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates
21 that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions, 22 and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further objects to 23 the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing
24 objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as 25 follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently
26 unable to admit or deny the Request. Discovery is continuing, and Responding Party
27 reserves its right to supplement this Request.

1      REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 6:

2            At the hour of 6:00 p.m. on August 16, 2008 the Los Angeles Travelodge West 3 motel was sold out for the night.

4      RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 6:

5            Responding Party objects to the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous.
6 Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as follows:
7 Admit-on or about 6 p.m. on August 16, 2008 the Los Angeles Travelodge West motel 8 was sold out for the night.

9

10      REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 7:

11           The woman working the front desk of the Los Angeles Travelodge West told 12 Plaintiff the motel was sold out on August 16, 2008.

13      RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 7:

14           Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun.
15 Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess
16 sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore 17 reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered
18 during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's 19 analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research
20 into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates
21 that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions, 22 and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further objects to 23 the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing
24 objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as 25 follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently
26 unable to admit or deny the Request. Discovery is continuing, and Responding Party
27 reserves its right to supplement this Request.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 8:

On August 16, 2008 room accommodations were offered to Plaintiff at the Los Angeles Travelodge West.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 8:

Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun. Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions, and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further objects to the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently unable to admit or deny the Request. Discovery is continuing, and Responding Party reserves its right to supplement this Request.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 9:

When Plaintiff was at the Los Angeles Travelodge West on August 16, 2008 she conducted herself in a reasonable manner.

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 9:

Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun. Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's

1 analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research
 2 into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates
 3 that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions,
 4 and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further objects to 5 the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing
 6 objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as 7 follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently
 8 unable to admit or deny the Request. Discovery is continuing, and Responding Party
 9 reserves its right to supplement this Request.

10

11 REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 10:

12 When Plaintiff was at the Los Angeles Travelodge West on August 16, 2008 the 13 dog with her did not act improperly.

14 RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 10:

15 Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun.
 16 Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess
 17 sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore 18 reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered
 19 during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's 20 analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research
 21 into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates
 22 that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions,
 23 and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further objects to 24 the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing
 25 objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as 26 follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently
 27 unable to admit or deny the Request. Discovery is continuing, and Responding Party
 28 reserves its right to supplement this Request.

1     REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 11:

2                 There are architectural barriers at the Los Angeles West Travelodge.

3     RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 11:

4                 Responding Party objects to this request on the grounds that it is vague and 5                 ambiguous as to the terms "architectural barriers". Responding Party further objects to 6                 the interrogatory as it assumes facts that are not in evidence. Without waiving the 7                 foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Deny

8

9     REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 12:

10                It is impracticable to remove the architectural barriers at the Los Angeles West 11                Travelodge.

12     RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 12:

13                Responding Party objects to this request on the grounds that it is vague and 14                ambiguous as to the terms "impracticable" and "architectural barriers". Responding 15                Party further objects to the interrogatory as it assumes facts that are not in evidence.
16                Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as follows: Deny

17

18     REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 13:

19                Admit that it is technically infeasible to remove the architectural barriers at the 20                Los Angeles West Travelodge.

21     RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 13:

22                Responding Party objects to this request on the grounds that it is vague and 23                ambiguous as to the terms "technically infeasible" and "architectural barriers".
24                Responding Party further objects to the interrogatory as it assumes facts that are not in 25                evidence. Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as 26                follows: Deny

10         located.

11     RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 15:

12                 Responding Party objects to the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous.
13         Without waiving the foregoing objections, Responding Party responds as follows:
14         Admit.

15

16     REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 16:

17                 Any discrimination Plaintiff suffered at the Los Angeles Travelodge West 18         resulted from isolated interruption in the services.

19     RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 16:

20                 Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun.
21         Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess
22         sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore 23         reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered
24         during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's 25         analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research
26         into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates
27         that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions, 28         and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further object to

1 the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing
 2 objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as
 3 follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently

9 RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 17:

10 Discovery and investigation into subject matter of this action have just begun.
 11 Accordingly, after a diligent inquiry, Responding Party does not presently possess
 12 sufficient information to respond fully to this request. Responding Party therefore 13 reserves the right to rely, for any purpose, upon information subsequently discovered
 14 during the course of such discovery and investigation. Further, Responding Party's 15 analysis of known facts, application of legal principles to those facts and legal research
 16 into the subject matter of this action is continuing, and Responding Party anticipates
 17 that such investigation, analysis, and research may reveal new facts and contentions, 18 and add meaning to known facts and contentions. Responding Party further objects to 19 the extent that the Request is vague and ambiguous. Without waiving the foregoing
 20 objections, and without admitting or denying the request, Responding Party responds as 21 follows: After a reasonable search and diligent inquiry, Responding Party is presently
 22 unable to admit or deny the Request. Discovery is continuing, and Responding Party 23 reserves its right to supplement this Request.
